Masked Ball

January 10

(see page 5)

Baroness and Baron Letter

Winter's grip closes and snow now falls upon the Swamp. The month of November held many tourneys and we are pleased to see so many of you competed or volunteered at these events. Courts were joyous in the halls and chambers, and many members of the Barony were recognized. Holidays were spent with friends and family and we are grateful for being part of such an amazing Barony.

On Saturday, January 10th, we shall be hosting our next Swamp Stomp to celebrate the New Year. It shall be a masked ball, and revel, so we hope you will come out and join us celebrate. Duchess Kiena is organizing workshops to decorate masks and Baroness Ursula is teaching dances at the Tuesday night Glen Gardener practice this month. Watch the Settmour Swamp calendar and your e-mail and Facebook for more details.

Join us and our Kingdom in neighboring Barony of Carillion for Twelfth Night, Bellringers and their Baronial investiture to celebrate the new Baroness and Baron, all on the 17th of January. Your Baroness will also be attending Birka the weekend of January 23rd.

Seneschale Notes

Greetings Settmour Swamp!

As we enter this season of Yule we have many things to be thankful for!

At our November meeting we voted on a number of important items...First, Baroness Ursula was confirmed as our Quest Autocrat for 2015; second, Thorlaeifr offered to continue as our Captain of Archers and was supported by a majority vote of the officers. The votes for Mistress of Arts and Sciences and Webmaster were postponed as the gentles in question were unable to attend the meeting. We hope to vote for those positions at our December meeting. Also at our December meeting the officers will vote on the positions of head cook for both Quest and Mudthaw and also for the writer of this year's Quest. Any interested parties should contact the respective autocrats to submit proposals.

We are in the process of signing a contract to secure the site for the upcoming Mudthaw to be held on March 28, 2015. Please keep an eye open on the lists and the kingdom website for our event announcement which will be promptly published once we finalize the contract.

Vivats go out to two of our young Swamp members, Melora of Settmour Swamp and Halldora Rolandsdottir who were both inducted into the Order of the Tyger's Cub at 100 minutes war. Vivats to these young ladies and to the other worthy gentles who were recognized at the court of their Majesties.

All of our practices continue to thrive; we encourage all to join in the fun, take up your swords, don your amour, stretch those muscles and keep in shape through the cold winter months. At our Glen Gardner site A&S activities continue to be encouraged. We will have dance practice every other week lead by our own Baroness Ursula. Then next dance lesson will be Tues Dec. 2nd. On December 9th we will welcome Master Jonathan Blaecstan who will teach a calligraphy class to all interested parties. We are always interested in hosting new A&S activities; please contact me if you would like to be added to the schedule.

Lastly, I am pleased to announce our next Swamp Stomp. On Sat, Jan 10th, we will host a masked ball and pot luck at the Glen Gardner site. The time will be from 12pm to 4pm so come out and enjoy dancing and good company.

The December officer's meeting will be held at the home of myself and my husband, Don Orlando in Hackettstown, please contact me for directions.

A Happy holiday season to all!

Yours in Service,
Charis

Seneschale

The Black Gryphon Inn will open it's doors once again, on February 7th, and we hope you will join us for a grand day filled with fun festivities. We will be holding our Bardic Championship there so prepare for a wonderful day of performances. The planning for Mudthaw is proceeding apace, with a new splendid site that will serve the event well. The announcement should be up soon, so please get the word out about the new site! Please offer your assistance to the Autocrat Master Galefridus, since many hands will be needed since we will be at a new site. Quest is also being planned for May at the same site as last year, with Baroness Ursula as autocrat, so mark your calendars for these events.

Baroness Jehannine

and

Baron Erec

Maerhild will autocrat Black Gryphon Inn

Greetings fellow Swampies! Your beloved Canton of Gryphonwald has been quite a-buzz with activity as we begin planning our annual event, Black Gryphon Inn or commonly known as BGI.

Black Gryphon Inn will take place at the beginning of February 2015, as usual.

This year's BGI will be autocrated by Lady Maerhild.

The BGI cooks for this year's feast will be Failenn Finn and Aife bean Macl'omhair

Lady Maerhild has been autocrating events for some time now, while Aife and I are just dipping our toes into the "feast-o-crating" positions. Keep your ear to the ground for more details and an event announcement shortly!

YIS,

Failenn Finn

Seneschale of Gryphonwald

Preparation for the Masked Ball—January 10 at Glen Gardner

Dance Practice

Dance Practice is on alternate Tuesdays at the Glen Gardner practice. One dance will be taught each evening by Baroness Ursula. The dance will be taught from 7:45 to 8:00 pm. Fencing and fighting will take place as usual with only this small 15 min break for the dance lesson.

The following videos and printed steps may help you to remember the dances:

Sellenger's Round

<http://dancevideos.childgrove.org/ecd/playford/179-sellengers-round>

Rufty Tufty

<http://dancevideos.childgrove.org/ecd/playford/139-rufty-tufty>

Masks for the Masque

Duchess Kiena has offered to make Embroidered Masks. There are 3 mask patterns:

Raven

Elvin - this mask can be the original pattern (see Blue and Green mask, below) or you can choose to have both sides match using either the right or left side.

Cat

Masks can be all one color, bi-color (Blue and Green, below) or two-toned (Pink on White, below)

Regardless of the pattern or the color choice, I am offering these masks to Swampies for $10 (unassembled) up until the Masque. Many color choices are available.

There are more pictures in my Mask photo gallery on my Facebook page.

Calligraphy Class

Calligraphy at Glen Gardner Dec 9 with Master Jonathan Blaecstan

Master Jonathan will teach a beginning calligraphy class on December 9 at the Glen Gardner practice.

This will be a class for absolute beginners. Master Jonathan will also bring two huge folders containing his portfolio of scrolls from the past 15+ years. This time he will primarily teach the beginning class. If more advanced students would like to ask questions or bring projects of their own, Master Jonathan will answer questions as time allows. If this class goes well, we may arrange a more advanced class at a later date.

Culinary Institute of America (CIA), Day Trip December 6

An update on the field trip to the library of the Culinary Institute of America (CIA) in Hyde Park, NY.

The date will definitely be Saturday 6 December. I'll post specifics on the Settmour Swamp Yahoo and Facebook groups in mid-November.

Hyde Park is about 1 1/2 hours from the Morristown area, so it is perhaps 2 - 2 1/2 hours for those who live in the more southern and western reaches of the Barony.

About a dozen folks is the largest group that would work well -- no librarians are on duty on Saturdays at the Culinary Institute, so I'd be serving as the research guide/reference librarian for this expedition.

Two of the CIA restaurants are open on Saturdays, so we need to select one for lunch.

One, the Bocuse (click here for the menu), is fairly high-end French cuisine, and the other, American Bounty (click here for the menu), is Hudson Valley seasonal. Please check these out and let me know your preferences.

We will need to make reservations for whichever restaurant we go to, so I'll want a fairly solid head count before the end of November.

Again, I'll post more specifics next month -- when and where we'll meet, and the consensus on what restaurant to go to.

Chronicler Notes

The December issue of the Mudpuppy is devoted to Calligraphy, Masks, and Dancing in the Barony of Settmour Swamp.

It is cold outside, so we have moved inside and are practicing dancing and making masks in preparation for the Masked Ball.

Everyone is busy with the holidays so this issue is somewhat shorter. Please send a question to Milton the Mudpuppy and encourage him to grace our pages with his wisdom!

MiltonMudpuppy (at) gmail.com

Please contact me if you have ideas for an article.

If you have a new or old story of the Swamp to tell, please send it to me.

Thanks to Ceara and Peter for encouragement, and excellent proofreading.

Olive Recipes as taught by Master Galefridus

We had an olive play date at the Glen Gardner fight practice and A&S gathering on 14 October. I brought a large box of raw olives, a bunch of unredacted medieval recipes, and a couple of cures that I had just started. We sorted olives (when you buy in bulk, you end up discarding about 10%-15%) and talked a bit about the process of redacting medieval recipes. A few of the braver folks tasted the raw olives to get sense of what the curing process needs to do to make olives palatable. Folks had a great time, and I'm hoping that we will all meet with success with our cures.

The recipes I handed out are below – I invite folks to try them and experiment a bit with recipe redaction. Contact me (galefridus@optimum.net) if you have questions on how to proceed, or if none of the recipes strike your fancy, let me know and I'll supply more.

From Abū al-Khayr al-Shajjār al-Ishbīlī, Kitāb al-Filāha, an 11th century Seville farm manual; English translation available at filaha.org:

Preparation of Olives in Brine

Take green olives that have been lightly crushed and scald them with boiling water. Then put them in a container with well-salted water and cover them with the leaves of bay, fennel and citron. A few days after this, add a little salt and a bundle of thyme.

Another method is to take olives in autumn and pit them with a pointed reed. Then wash them with plenty of water. Then put the fruit in a jar with leaves of thyme, mountain balm, bay, citron and mint. Fill with a liquid composed of one third drinking water and two thirds vinegar, well mixed, then seal the container until the olives are preserved.

A third method: Gather good white olives in October and wash them as described above. Put them in a jar and sprinkle with salt, then with oil, then flavor with leaves of mint, thyme, coriander, fennel, citron and bay. Complete the process by covering the olives with syrup of honey and vinegar [oxymel]. Finally, stuff the opening of the receptacle with the leaves of sumac and fennel and seal it tightly.

My translation of the first of two cures from Ibn Razīn al-Tujībī, Fadālat al-Khiwān fi Tayyibāt al-Ta'ām wa-al-Alwān, a 13th century Andalusian cookbook. I have not yet translated the second cure.

First recipe. Select olives harvested in October and November, large or small. Wash and put them in an oiled jar or one that served to contain oil in successive layers: olives, lime [the fruit] and thyme from Šardūn [Sardinia?], until the jar is filled. Then pour in clear water to cover and leave covered for several days. Then check; if needed, add water, and salt.

The Geoponika, a 10th century Byzantine farm manual lists six cures. I have selected the first three, all attributed to Florentinus:

Very fine conserved olives. Florentinus. Taking large perfect olives, picked by hand, cut them round with a sharp reed and put them in a new jar, not yet pitched, sprinkling on top a very little salt, and when it has dissolved have ready another jar, with honey if available, if not, hepsema [concentrated grape must] and a citron leaf, and put the olives into this marinade so that it covers them. Some add fennel seed, caraway, celery seed and dill to this marinade, and make quite a remarkable olive conserve, which is unfamiliar to many.

Olives in oxymeli*. Same author. Take long ones with their stalks, best quality of course, black and unbruised, wash in cold water and dry on wicker mats; then put them in a bowl and pour olive oil on them and sprinkle on fine salt, one choinix [about 1.1 liters] to nine choinikes of olives; move them gently with the hands but do not let them bruise; then put them in a jar, pour in oxymeli so that it covers them, top with fennel fronds, and store.

* Oxymel is a vinegar and honey syrup used primarily for making a non-alcoholic thirst quencher. It is the basis for sekanjabin. The translator/editor recommends a recipe for oxymel from Dioscorides' Materia Medica: "Take 5 kotylai wine vinegar, 1 mna sea salt, 10 mnai liquid honey, 1 kotylai water; mix and boil until one-tenth has boiled away; cool and store." Kotylai = cups; mna/i = lb/lbs.

Conserve in must. Same author. Picking white olives [very light green] they marinate them in seawater for six days. Then they put them in a jar and pour fresh must in, but they do not completely fill it or the must would overflow in fermenting; after fermentation they seal it. Others put in a handful of salt before the must, and then the olives, and seal when it has fermented.

Baronial Tip from Our Baroness and Baron

Too many times we get into the same old routine at events. Consider trying your hand at something new, you never know you might enjoy it!

Baroness Jehannine &
Baron Erec

Knight Marshal Tip from Wulfgar

Greetings to our Baronial Warriors;

The last two weeks have been filled with a lot of conversation and debate about behavior in the list and on the field. Many have shared good and bad experiences, many have offered very useful insights.

What I would like to remind everyone is that we are in the Society to have fun, to learn new things, make new friends and basically celebrate our geekness. Along with all of this fun is responsibility and respect towards our fellow SCAdians and ourselves.

Our game is not perfect, but nothing is. We rely on mutual respect and self awareness to keep a fair playing field, and a fun, competitive experience.

Communicate with your opponent as you would with a sparring partner at practice, know your armor for dead spots and accept that they are not free play areas, make sure that your weapons are in good condition. This is as much about safety as it is about recognizing good hits.

We win and we lose, that's how it all goes. If you want to win more, train more; but never trade your self respect for a win. There are more than enough excellent examples of good, honorable fighters, both Chivalry and unbelted, that show this to be true.

YiS,

Baron Wulfgar Silfrahaar, KM

Arts & Sciences Tip from Caterina

Did you know we have a masquerade planned for January?

It is a Swamp Stomp here in the Barony of Settmour Swamp.

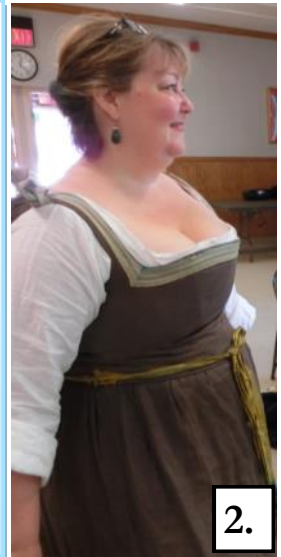

Your mask can be a simple mask covering your eyes, it can be a full face mask, it can be a full on costume, (of course with a Scadian bent), or in the period method, it can be an Allegorical figure. There are many paintings depicting these fabulous costumes. A little sleuthing around on the web might bring up some of those paintings.

Masquerades/ masques were quite popular back then.

Who will you come as?

Chronicler Tip from Ursula

No I can't write an article

- I don't have time
- I will feel foolish
- I don't know anything
- It is too hard

The best way to write an article is to find some topic that interests you and just start working on it.

Open a new document and BRAIN DUMP questions or thoughts or ideas.

It does not need to be organized or structured at first. Just get the ideas down on paper.

Then make a copy of all these ideas and paste them into the top of the document. Start organizing them. Don't worry about losing any of your ideas. You are working on a copy. Structure your thoughts into groups. Just copy and paste and rearrange.

Then start asking questions. How do you make a red dye or how did they use icing on cakes (did they use icing on cakes?)

Ask your local Laurels or Cooks or Fighters or Fencers or Weavers for help and books.

Write down what you learn. Add photographs to show the key points of your article. Think of it as explaining what you learned to another person.

Baroness Ursula of North Woods
Chronicler

Equestrian Tip from Kiena

Why do some horses wear blankets while others do not?

Horses grow a thick second coat for the winter months. This coat will fluff out when it's cold and acts as wind blocker as needed. Some horses either don't grow a really thick winter coat or get clipped. So in these cases, it's critical that the horse wears a coat to protect them from the elements.

Why do some horses get clipped?

When horses get exercised during the winter, their coat gets very sweaty and this can take a lot of time to dry out. So, it's generally better to clip their coats so you don't expose them to potentially risky conditions.

Happy Trails to you all
Duchess Kiena

Favorite Scrolls

Please submit a high resolution photograph of your favorite scroll for publication in the Mudpuppy. It can be the prettiest, the silliest or just your favorite. See an example of one of Lady Vivian De Dunbar's favorite scrolls (for her son, Harry) on page 9.
